Hi,

I truly believe that we need rules that assert that orphaned work is public domain. There are lots of works of software where the company has gone under all that software is lost. This is especially true of software within the federal government/NASA. Much code gets re-written from scratch decause the author never documented who they were.

Thanks for listening,
Kurt Schwehr